

Markets

Bloomberg

BRANSON'S
PLANET VIRGIN

September 2003

HOW TO GET INTO HARVARD

WEB WARS Google Takes On eBay

STANLEY HO'S
SHOWDOWN

U.S. AIRLINES:
BEYOND REPAIR

APAX'S
AMERICAN DREAM

Sergey Brin, left,
and Larry Page,
Google cofounders

STRATEGIES
Hedge Funds

$4.95 US$6.50 €4.95 £3.25

099

CONTENTS

Features

COVER STORY

- 26 WEB WARS: GOOGLE TAKES ON EBAY Two Web titans are on a collision course over billions of dollars in revenue, millions of customers and selling the perfect word.
By Anthony Effinger
- 34 U.S. AIRLINES: BEYOND REPAIR Slack demand, management missteps and sour labor relations have cost the industry billions—with no solution in sight.
By Loren Steffy and Mary Schlangenstein
- 46 PLANET VIRGIN As Richard Branson begins a new push to plant his logo all over the globe, he'll have to convince investors he's after profits as well as publicity.
By Stephanie Baker-Said

- 56 A BILLIONAIRE'S BEST FRIEND Tarak Ben Ammar does deals with clients like Murdoch, Alwaleed and Berlusconi—sometimes all at once.
By Vernon Silver
- 64 RONALD COHEN'S AMERICAN DREAM Apax Partners, Europe's largest private equity firm, is targeting the U.S. as competition builds on its home turf.
By Simon Clark and Randy Whitestone
- 72 STANLEY HO'S HIGH-STAKES SHOWDOWN The Macau billionaire faces competition from U.S. casino operators. By William Mellor
- 80 HOW TO GET HOLLY INTO HARVARD With more students than ever vying for admission to top U.S. colleges, parents seeking an edge are hiring private consultants who charge as much as $32,000. By Liz Willen
- 90 COMMERCE BANCORP: MORE MONEY, MORE QUESTIONS Investor concerns about accounting practices and political maneuvering have hammered the New Jersey lender's stock price. By Andrew Pratt

